

Miss Amanda Sampson is very excited to join the Holy Name School team as the new Spanish teacher for Pre-K through Grade 8! She earned her B.A. in Latin American Studies and Political Science from Boston University in 2012. She has been teaching in the diocesan schools for the past two years and is looking forward to continuing her career in Catholic education. She is currently pursuing her license to teach Spanish and hopes to obtain an additional license to teach students with moderate disabilities.
